TEXTILES: INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITIES

All essential ingredients for a competitive textile industry are available in Ethiopia: raw materials, low wages and low energy costs. This gives the country a comparative advantage over countries and regions elsewhere in the world. Ethiopia's textiles and clothing industry is undergoing massive development which is helped by the presence of a cheap, skilled and highly motivated workforce. This has also been aided by the country's impressive economic growth over the years. Ethiopia's access to domestic, regional and international markets, in combination with the availability of raw cotton and other natural fibres, forms the basis of its enormous export potential in the field of textiles and garments. Spinning, weaving and finishing of textile fabrics are ample manufacturing opportunities for prospective investors.

Textile and garment is one of the oldest industries in Ethiopia which spans over 70 years. It is still one of the driving forces in the Industrial Development Strategy. The Ethiopian Government is actively engaged in the modernisation of the textile sector with the objective of attracting foreign investors that can penetrate the global market. Ethiopia has a long tradition of producing cotton. It is cultivated in the lowlands of the country through rain-fed agriculture and in the past 40 years through modern irrigated farms. High quality cotton is also cultivated by small-scale farmers. There are about 2,575,810 hectares of land suitable for cotton production. The country provides a wide opportunity for investment in large scale farming. The production of cotton is well integrated into the textile sector, with garment factories relying heavily on domestically produced cotton.

The textile and garment sub-sector has registered marked growth. Currently, the number of factories has reached about 50. The majority of these factories are privately owned with a wide participation of foreign investors. Foreign investment is contributing a great deal to this growth. In addition to the ongoing expansion and overhaul of old textile factories, privatisation of public owned factories is also expected to bring about technology transfer and productivity in the sub-sector. Currently, there are about 10 textile and apparel factories that are engaged in export. With the expansion and growth of the sub-sector it is anticipated that in the coming five years export earnings would reach to about US$1 billion.
